Virtual Stage Management: Pricing Guide

A powerful and simple stage management tool

Until now, stage managers, directors, and venues have had to rely on photocopied calendars and handwritten forms. Even the most technically advanced theatre groups depend on numerous different programs: word processors, databases, and spreadsheets to produce schedules and forms with unreliable results. Now you can benefit from Virtual Stage Management (VSM), a personal, interactive website that combines show management, artist accessibility and social networking in one powerful, simple, and user-friendly online application. Now, managers can supervise the action of a production while artists receive and interact with up-to-date information. Information is incredibly easy to update and access. You can store unlimited information on cast, crew, and staff to create a valuable resource. By eliminating a majority of the time spent producing paperwork, artistic staff members are free to manage more important aspects of the arts: good communication and leadership while supervising your production.

Exclusive to MTI, many of the most popular shows have been broken down by professional stage managers and developed into ready-to-use templates. These "Gold Masters" include character/scene breakdowns, contractual publishing information, and pertinent show information to manage your production and export multiple reports including your "showbill."
